— Indicates the major championship was not held during the player's competitive career.

[^] Indicates the du Maurier Classic, which was the LPGA's fourth major from 1979-2000.

[#] Karrie Webb won one du Maurier Classic (1999) and one Weetabix Women's British Open (2002); Sherri Steinhauer won one du Maurier Classic (1992) and one Weetabix Women's British Open (2006).

The U.S. Women's Open became an LPGA major in 1950, the McDonald's LPGA Championship Presented by Coca-Cola became a major in 1955, the Kraft Nabisco Championship became a major in 1983 and the RICOH Women's British Open became a major in 2001. The du Maurier Classic was a major from 1979-2000 and the RICOH Women's British Open took its place as the fourth major of the season. The Titleholders Championship was a designated major from 1937-42, 1946-66 and in 1972; and the Western Open was a major from 1930-67.
